Hi Alan, here are some of the players in our meeting set for February 25th and ideas on the what we are looking for. Maybe one question are you coming with David Powers from NOAA, Christine Psyk thought you would be?

Clair Thomas is our chair and Suzanne is our vice chair.

We are going to start our outreach, and below the initial thought was 15- 25 people, which still may be realistic but because this is the only such presentation currently scheduled in Oregon, will reach out to other Watershed Councils in Tillamook and local Soil and Water Conservation groups to judge their interest.

Thank you for agreeing to come to Tillamook and be part of the discussion, if you have some background information that I could use for our press release that would be great.

David,

Dick and I have talked and I will come to this meeting on February 25. I am the current Water Quality Administer and am the DEQ lead on the CZARA. Hence, I should be able to provide insights on what is happening and provide answers for those questions that have answers.

You provided quite of bit of info below, but any additional questions or guidance would be helpful. Besides my email address, my telephone contact info is below.

Thank you for the call back, here are some of the specifics to help us make a decision as to comment or not.

The Tillamook Watershed Council meets the last Tuesday of the month, and our February 25th meeting has been set aside for discussing the EPA and NOAA's proposed disapproval of Oregon's coastal area pollution program. We meet at 6:30 pm in the Hatfield Room of the Tillamook Public Library located at 1716 3rd Street in Tillamook. General flow of the meeting has been introductions, then about a hour is reserved for the presentation, followed by a business meeting. This is a public meeting and will receive some advertising in our local paper and an optimistic attendance is 15 to 25 people. EPA/ NOAA has been invited but to date have not committed to attend to provide their view.

What we are looking is information about the disapproval, perhaps the why (but I think this is more of an EPA thing), and what it would mean to coastal communities and ongoing restoration work.

I do hope that you, or a representative from Oregon's DEQ will be able to make our meeting.

If you have additional questions I can be reached, probably preferably, on my personnel cell phone at
